LISBON, August 16.

THE King, at the Request of the British Court has decreed, 'That the Privateers of Spain shall not for 'the future be permitted to enter the same Portuguese 'Ports, nor bring Prizes into them, unless drove in by 'Stress of Weather: That in such Case they shall 'not be permitted to sell their Prizes there, nor any of the Effects 'therein contain'd, but shall be oblig'd to retire as soon as the 'Weather will permit: That neither the Subjects of the King, 'nor any other Persons shall be suffer'd to purchase the Privateers or the Effects with which they are laden.

Stockholm, September 5. Count Gyllenbourg, President of the Chancery, lately wrote a Letter to Mr. Rumpf, Minister from the States General, wherein he acquainted them, 'That the King was made sensible of the Attention of their High Mightinesses for the Preservation of Peace in the North, by the Memorial which that Minister presented some time ago: That his Majesty ever since he came to the Crown, had always been of the same Mind, and had made use of all Methods to prevent the Disturbance of the publick Tranquility: That he flatter'd himself with attaining to this End, if the Crown of Russia would have been more moderate, and had been touch'd with the same Considerations: That his Majesty's Patience being quite wore out, he could no longer bear Injuries which tended to destroy the Honour, Dignity, and State of his Crown: That, in order to do himself Justice, he had taken Arms, and declared War against the Czar of Muscovy: That he had no other Design than to secure the Tranquility of his Dominions; and that then resuming his former Dispositions, he would be willing to listen to any thing that might restore the Peace of the North, &c.

The Dyet of the Kingdom is at length broke up. The Baron de Gyllenstierna is condemn'd to perpetual Imprisonment at Marstrand. Before he goes thither, he will be expos'd to publick View upon a Scaffold, with a Writing upon his Breast importing the Crime he was guilty of. He will suffer the same thing in all the Places on his Road to Marstrand.

Perth, September 4. For these nine Days last past, the Rev. Mr. Whitefield has continued Preaching with great Power, twice every Day, to very large and affected Auditories, in many Towns and Villages, and considerable Contributions have been gather'd for the Orphan-House in Georgia. He is going on as far as Dundee, and then returns to Glasgow, and soon after purposes, God willing, to leave Scotland, and go through Wales to England.

LONDON, Sept. 11.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague.

As there is now less Likelihood than ever of the States General's supplying her Majesty of Hungary with their Contingent in Troops, seeing fresh Difficulties would attend the marching them into the Empire, from the Swarms of French Troops which are now in Germany, the Baron de Reischach, Minister from that Princess, has intimated, that she is at present, (as he is inform'd) in a Disposition to accept of Money instead of Troops. This Minister does not at all endeavour to disguise the Discontent of her Majesty of Hungary at the Conduct of their High Mightinesses, and gives them to understand, that she lays but little Stress upon their Alliance: That the Dilatoriness they have shewn in giving her the Assistance which by Treaties they ought, together with the Backwardness of the rest of the Powers who are engag'd to maintain the Pragmatick Sanction, in lending her the Aid which she has a just Right to demand, will, he says, necessarily oblige her to have Recourse to the Mediation of France, who alone she finds is capable of puting her distracted Affairs into a better Situation. Nothing but the most urgent Necessity would engage her to do this, being sensible how fatal such a Step might possibly prove to some of her Allies, because in that Case she would in all likelihood be depriv'd of assisting them, should their future Occasion for her Aid be never so great.

An Extract of a Letter from the Hague, dated Sept. 12.

The Directors of the East-India Company of this Country, have begun again to solicit the States General, in order to obtain the Renewal of their Charter; but whether they will succeed in their Sollicitation, is yet doubtful. Several Deliberations have been already had here upon this Subject; in some of which it has been concluded, that this Company could not possibly subsist, unless the Administration of it was put upon another Footing; for if Things were left in their present Condition, there's great Reason to apprehend the Ruin of the Company, wherein that of the Republick might perhaps be involv'd. Several Merchants of the principal Cities of this Country insinuate, that the best Method that could be taken, would be to make the East-India Commerce so entirely free, as that every private Person might have the Liberty of trading thither. This Opinion is however oppos'd by others, who say, that the Merchants would by this Means be infallibly inspired with such a Jealousy, as would put them upon destroying one another. In the mean time, the States General have resolv'd to enquire into the Original and Causes of the late frightful Affair at Batavia. Most People throw the Odium of that shocking Occurrence upon the late Governor General Walthenier, who is said to have been the principal Cause of it: He has the Character of being a rapacious Man, and by his Extortions has driven the Chinese into Despair, and induced them to rise up in Arms. The Fiscal of the Company, as the general Massacre there was carried on with a Rigour which exceeded all Bounds, has Orders to form criminal Process against all concern'd in it. It is now no longer a Mystery, that France has been endeavouring to determine the Majority of the Electors in favour of the Elector of Bavaria, for whom he intends to obtain the Kingdom of Bohemia. As the King of Prussia would thereby become Feudatory of that Prince for the Territories which he ſhall poſſeſs in Sileſia, it is imagin'd he will be the more eaſily induced to vote for this Elector to be Emperor. His Pruſſian Majeſty has been aſſur'd, that his Reſolution would greatly facilitate the Accommodation of all the Quarrels in the Empire. Some Letters from Hanover, however, adviſe, that his Britannick Majeſty will have an Army of Obſervation of 100000 Men, amongſt which will be 25 or 30000 Pruſſians; which, if true, will prove the Reports which have been ſpread abroad of an Alliance between that Prince and the Courts of France, Spain, and Bavaria, to be falſe.

for

Extract of another Letter from the Hague.

The People in this Country can by no Means comprehend the Meaning of the Conduct purſued by the Court of Vienna. At a time when there is Advice that ſhe is ready to throw herſelf into the Arms of France, the Baron de Reiſchach has intimated to the States General, That this Princeſs can't help being greatly alarm'd with the March of the French Troops into the Empire: That ſhe was not able to apprehend with what View they were ſent to the Elector of Bavaria; and could not readily imagine that his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty would come to attack her hereditary Dominions; She therefore deſir'd their High Mightineſſes would be pleas'd to make uſe of their Credit with this Prince, in order to obtain a categorical Anſwer from him. The States General have ſince ſent Orders to M. Van Hoey, their Ambaſſador at Paris, to communicate to the Miniſtry there, the Diſquietudes of her Majeſty of Hungary, and to intreat them poſitively to declare upon what Footing his Moſt Chriſtian Majeſty pretends to ſuccour the Elector of Bavaria. Since the ſending of theſe Orders to that Ambaſſador, a Courier is arrived from him, with Diſpatches, intimating, that the Baron de Wiſner, Miniſter from the Queen of Hungary, and the Marquis de Stanville, Miniſter from the Grand Duke of Tuſcany, have openly declared to the Cardinal, that this Princeſs, and the Duke her Conſort, being at length convinc'd of their Error in truſting to the Aſſiſtance of thoſe whom ſhe look'd upon as faithful Allies, had Recourſe in this their Extremity to the Alliance and Good Offices of his Moſt Chriſtian Majeſty. To which his Eminence anſwer'd, 'That as the Court of Vienna did not take this Step till after it had given the moſt publick Marks of its diſtruſting the King, there was therefore no room for it to be ſurpriz'd to hear, that his Majeſty had promis'd his Aſſiſtance to thoſe who had put greater Confidence in him. M. Van Hoey does not mention what Reſolution France will take upon this Propoſition; but there is Reaſon to believe, that if ſhe intereſts herſelf in Favour of the Court of Vienna, it will be upon very hard Conditions, and that the Queen of Hungary muſt at leaſt make a Sacrifice of Bohemia, and perhaps of Luxembourg.

Newcaſtle, Sept. 12. We are adviſ'd from Sunderland, that on Tueſday Night laſt aroſe a violent Storm of Wind at Eaſt, when ſeveral Ships in the Road were in great Diſtreſs and receiv'd conſiderable Damage, ſome being drove from their Anchors, and others cut their Cables. The Adventure of Scarborough, John Ward, Maſter, was loſt near the Pier End, and 3 Men 1 Woman and a Child drown'd; three of her Hands were ſaved next Morning upon the Ship's Deck, which had parted from the Hull. The Noble Anne of Sunderland, Thomas Richardſon, Maſter, was forced to cut his Cable, and with great Difficulty got within the Pier. Another Ship of Sunderland, Thomas Stephenſon, was obliged to cut his Cable, and loſing his Rudder, was drove aſhore to the Southward of the Pier, the Ship was in great danger of being a Wreck. The Adventure of Sunderland Mr. Dunn, Maſter, endeavour'd to ride it out; but his Windlaſs giving way, was oblig'd to cut, and being near laden, ſtruck among the Breakers, and every Soul muſt inevitably have periſh'd, had not Mr. George Tompſon, Fitter, with ſome brave Hands, at the utmoſt Hazard of their Lives, ventur'd out, and brought off all the Ship's Company, to the great Satisfaction as well as Surpriſe of all preſent; but the Ship being among the Breakers, 'tis fear'd will be loſt.

Sept. 12. We hear from Huntingdon, that on Tueſday laſt they had the moſt violent Hurricane of Wind from the Weſt, for about a half an Hour that ever was known there. It began between Eleven and Twelve, and blew down the Steeple of St. Ive's (being one of the fineſt Spires in that Country) directly on the Body of the Church, which it beat down. Great Damage was done to the Buildings in that Town, and large Arms of Trees were whirl'd about in the Air like Feathers. The Spires of Hemingford and Bluntiſham Churches were likewiſe blown down; the Damage done to the Rector's Houſe and Gardens of the latter Places, 'tis ſaid amounts to 500l. Moſt of the Windmills near the Place are blown down, particularly at Bourne (where a Man and a Boy where kill'd) one at Elſworth, one at Fenny-Stanton, one at Over, three at Willingham, one at Bluntiſham (where a Man was kill'd) and thoſe left ſtanding very much ſhatter'd. At Long-Stanton the Mill was remov'd from the Place it ſtood on, ſeveral Booths were blown down in Sturbiſh Fair, and ſeveral large Trees in the Fields adjacent blown up by the Roots; which extraordinary Accident put the People in the greateſt Conſternation.

EDINBURGH, Auguſt 8.

On Sunday Evening the Rev. Mr. Whitefield preached in a Field near the Orphan Houſe to upwards of 15000 People; and on Monday, Friday and Saturday Evening to near as many. On Tueſday Morning he preach'd in the Cannon-gate Church, and on Wedneſday and Thurſday at Dumfermlin; and in his Return on Friday Morning about eight o'Clock, at a Town called Queen's Ferry, ſeven Miles from Edinburgh; every where the Auditories were large and very attentive. Great Power has accompanied his Preaching, many have been brought under Conviction, and he has already receiv'd ſeveral Invitations to ſeveral Places, which, God willing, he intends to comply with.

Auguſt 10. The Reverend Mr. Whitefield preached on Thurſday laſt in the Kirk of Dumfermlin, but we are informed the Reverend Gentlemen of the Aſſociate Preſbytery, met there, have not adopted his Doctrines or Method, as was expected; yea, they have found Fault with Mr. Ralph Erſkine, for ſymbolizing ſo far as to mount the Cannon-gate Church Pulpit along with him. Mr. Whitefield alſo preached at the Orphan Hoſpital on Friday and Saturday, to ſo crowded an Audience, that, what with the People who attended the Fooliſhneſs of Preaching, and thoſe who went to ſee the Vanities of the Eaſt-Indies aboard the Ships in the Road, this City has not been once ſo thin ſince the Days of King David.

Yeſterday Afternoon Mr. Whitefield preach'd at the Orphan Hoſpital to the moſt numerous Audience that has yet attended him, tho' ſome Thouſands withdrew, becauſe they could not hear. Indeed he does not ſpare his Lungs, but thunders himſelf hoarſe in order to be heard by all.

Paris, Sept. 20. N. S. An Epidemic Diſtemper rages in the Neighbourhood of Paris, of which great Numbers have already dy'd: It begins with a violent Pain in the Head, and kills in twenty-four Hours: On opening ſeveral of the dead Bodies their Brains have been found full of Worms.

BOSTON, December 1.

We have the following melancholy Account from the Eaſtward, viz: That a Snow from Londonderry in Ireland, one Rowen Maſter, bound to New-Caſtle in Pennſylvania, with 200 Perſons on board, having loſt all their Maſts, and been at Sea upwards of ten Weeks, was lately drove among the Iſlands in the Eaſtern Parts of this Province, and at laſt ran aſhore upon Grand Menan, where they were utter Strangers and in want of all Neceſſaries; and tho' they ſent out their Boats to look for Inha-

Inhabitants, it was ſo long before they return'd, that many of the People periſhed for Want: However, at laſt one of their Boats returned with a Sloop, in which many of the People got to George's Fort, and others of them to Pemaquid, but in ſo miſerable a Condition, that three or four died in a Day, notwithſtanding the Care that was taken of them; and their Number was reduced to fifty odd, when our Informer came away, and ſeveral others ſo weak that 'twas thought they could not poſſibly recover. We had this Account from one of the Paſſengers, who, with two others, came to Town laſt Saturday in a Sloop from George's: And we hear further, that one of their Boats that went to make Diſcoveries and ſeek for Inhabitants, had not been heard of when he came away, and 'twas greately feared never would.
